

"Beyond the white coat, I am a dedicated professional with a passion for excellence, integrating clinical expertise with managerial finesse to elevate healthcare standards while mastering balance in my family life with devotion."

I'm Johanna Fair, a general practitioner specializing in healthcare administration and management with over 10 years of experience. I live in Argentina and have dedicated my career to improving healthcare quality and system performance.

My passion for healthcare excellence led me to pursue postgraduate studies in healthcare service quality evaluation, as well as epidemiology and statistics. This blend of clinical skills and management knowledge allows me to address healthcare challenges comprehensively.

Outside of my professional life, I'm a proud wife and mother of two children. Balancing my family responsibilities with my career is an integral part of who I am.
